DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 8, 9, 11-16 and 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Grunke et al. (2004/0012152). Grunke et al. discloses a gas turbine engine comprising: a plurality of blades, a casing 10 enclosing the plurality of blades; and an abradable coating 12 on the casing, the coating sealing a radial gap between the casing and the rotating blades, wherein the coating is produced from lanthanum hexaaluminate having a magnetoplumbite structure. The coating is a multi-layered coating having an outermost layer 16 is produced from the lanthanum hexaaluminate (Paragraph 31) and an interior adhesion layer 20 (paragraph 29) between the outermost layer and the casing. Grunke et al further discloses an intermediate layer 18 of zirconium dioxide (paragraph 33) between the interior layer and the outer most layer.

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention “by another,” or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-10, 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Saruhan-Brings et al. (2002/0197503) in view of Grunke et al. Saruhan-Brings et al. discloses a heat insulating coating for a gas turbine engine comprising a coating of lanthanum hexaaluminate having a magnetoplumbite structure wherein the coating is a single layer of lanthanum hexaaluminate. Saruhan-Brings et al. does not disclose that the coating is abradable or the specific location at which the coating is applied.

Grunke et al. discloses the same coating as stated above and further discloses that the use of lanthanum hexaaluminate provides good protection against the temperature changes of the turbine engine during operation. Since both Saruhan-Brings et al. and Grunke et al. disclose the coating having the same use, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the coating of Saruhan-Brings et al. in an environment as taught by Grunke et al. for the purpose of thermally insulating the gas turbine casing. Further, since no difference is shown between the coating of Grunke et al. and the coating of Saruhan-Brings et al. it is the position of the Examiner that the coating of Saruhan-Brings et al. would also be abradable like the coating of Grunke et al.
